Honor Eldredge With Sculpture

At the May 4 Morning Exercise, in a surprise presentation to outgoing Headmaster George F. Eldredge ('41), plans for a sculpture to be built in his honor were announced by Harold H. Hines, Jr.

A group of present and past parents commissioned John Almquist, Head of the School's Art Department, to design and construct the work which when completed will be placed in the courtyard of the Arts Center. The sculpture, to be nine feet tall, is an abstract and will be constructed in stainless steel. It will be formally dedicated and installed in the Fall.

A graduate of North Shore, Mr. Eldredge has been associated with the School since 1949, as a teacher, Head of the Lower and Middle Schools, and as Headmaster. He leaves to return to teaching as Head of the Upper School at Roycemore School in Evanston.

IN RETROSPECT

As you leave the School which you have loved and served so well for 37 years, the last thing you would want, George, is a eulogy, especially one from some of your classmates of the notorious Class of 1941. Nevertheless, since most of us, now, are respectably rounding the mid-century mark, a few reminiscences are in order — blurred though they are through our misty bifocals. (Strange to remember that ours was the generation of crew cuts, nonsensical nicknames, lipstick, bobby sox, convertibles, and swing.)

Most of us met you for the first time when you came, under protest, to the grade party for incoming freshmen in 1936. (Your mother later confessed that she had "dragged" you there, which has to have been quite a feat, for, even then, she was half your size!) Soon, however, you were "one of the boys," who can best be categorized as a band of empty stomachs. (That, too, has changed.) You were a good student - not too hard on your teachers - with a strong bent toward math and the sciences and a lesser one toward foreign languages. For reasons of health you were forced to drop Latin, having chewed up at least one box of pencils under Mrs. Child's tutelage! Snuffie Howe recalls that your Spanish, too, was questionable; apparently, you spent half the summer, at Dan Well's ranch, trying to distinguish between "muchachas" and "muchachos". (You had a number of "muchachas", though I was never lucky enough to be one of them; you were always falling in love with one of my best friends, so I usually wound up as your Ann Landers.)

Your political acumen made you a big wheel in the Howe-Wagner machine which literally "bugged" its candidate, Art Walsh, into the presidency of the Student Council. (In those days, "bugging" meant "pestering" the Student body until it elected your candidate, just to make you cut out the big noise.)

Socially, your main interest was pool, at which you became adept after extensive practice in some one's family room that happened to be completely equipped by Brunswick Balke. You also played varisty baseball and basketball, holding your own through thick and thin. (And it was mostly "thick," for, as a group, we were more athletically than academically minded. Then, too, the future lay ahead, so there was time - even for having fun.)

Musically, you played to the hilt such stellar roles as the Duke of Plaza-Toro (Gondoliers), Major General Stanley ("the very model of a modern Major General" in The Pirates of Penzance), and Sir Roderic Murgatrowd (the 2/3 of a ghost in Ruddigore). The role of Sir Roderic was also played by Hank Bartholomay; "when the night wind howled" echoes down the years! Finally, George, you were chosen to be the class Valedictorian, which role you fulfilled with characteristic integrity, humility, and wit.

Since our friendships continue to be strong, no goodbyes are needed as we join you, Dee, and your children in looking ahead toward new experiences and new friends. Grateful for having shared your past, we look forward to sharing your future. On behalf of the Class of '41, we wish you well.

ERICA WILSON TO SPEAK AT WOMAN'S BOARD BENEFIT

The Woman's Board will hold its 4th Annual Benefit with a week's Needlework Show in October. To highlight the Show, Needlework authority Erica Wilson will give a slide-lecture. A Preview Cocktail Party on Friday, October 19 in the Gallery of the Arts Center, which Miss Wilson will attend, will kick off the events. Her slide-lecture will be given Saturday, October 20, followed by a week of displays and boutiques on campus.

Erica Wilson, one of the best known of today's designers and teachers of embroidery is the author of Crewel Embroidery and has her own television show, "Erica" on public television. Born in England, she has been both a student and instructor at the Royal School of Needlework in London.

Watch for more details of the Needlework Show - the date to remember is October 19 for the Preview Party.

On Campus This Summer—

The Summer Day Camp for area children 4 to 10 years old will center on our campus from June 18 through August 10. Martin J. McCarty, Director of Physical Education at North Shore, is Camp Director and has developed a wide program of activities according to age levels, including riflery, archery, baseball, games, drama, arts, crafts, as well as beach activities such as swimming and sailing.

Establish Perry Dunlap Smith Lecture Series

The College of Education at Roosevelt University, in cooperation with The North Shore Country Day School, established the Perry Dunlap Smith Memorial Lecture Series this Spring. In honor of Mr. Smith, who for 35 years was Headmaster at North Shore, the series is designed to examine educational problems.

The program was initiated in April by Dr. Robert H. Koff, Dean of the College of Education at Roosevelt, and a 1957 graduate of North Shore, together with George F. Eldredge, Headmaster at North Shore.

Held at the Sheraton Blackstone Hotel, the guest speaker was child psychoanalyst Dr. Bruno Bettelheim, who is the Stella M. Rowley Distinguished Service Professor of Education, Psychology and Psychiatry, and Director of the Sonia Shankman Orthogenic School, University of Chicago.

In Memorium

Ellen Carswell Green, who from 1932 to 1939 taught Latin and history here, died recently in Evanston. When Mrs. Green left North Shore, she became Headmistress of the Sunset Hill School in Kansas City, where she stayed until her retirement in 1966. She had lived since then in Evanston.

Arthur A. Landers, 67, a director of music at North Shore from 1928 to 1931, died at Exeter, N. H. last April. He had been chairman of the music department at Phillips Exeter Academy for 40 years before retiring two years ago.

Alumni Fund Drive Nearing Finish

The annual Alumni Fund Drive to support the Scholarship Fund is in its final stages, according to Richard D. Golden, '44, chairman. Over $6,000 has been raised and 195 alumni have made contributions. The Fund Drive Committee with Kenneth M. Henderson Jr. ('47) Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Johnson ('43, '43) and Franklin B. Bowes ('27) extends special thanks for the efforts of the Class Chairman and to all those who have responded so generously.

Welcome Class of '73!

The Class of '73, graduating this month, has been an unusually successful group of students measured both by their academic endeavors and their contributions to the School community. College acceptances have been outstanding with this class. As a group they made 107 applications to 72 colleges. More than 70% of these applications resulted in acceptances, allowing many of the students the opportunity to choose from more than one college that had invited them to join their classes of 1977. The colleges they have chosen to attend are:

Amherst	3	Rensselaer	1
Bethel	1	Rockford	2
Bennett	2	St. Lawrence	1
Bowdoin	1	Swarthmore	1
Bryn Mawr	1	U. of Chicago	1
Colorado State	1	U. of Colorado	1
Conn. College	2	U. of Michigan	1
Cornell U	1	U. of Oregon	1
Denison U	2	Washington U.	2
Middlebury	1	Webster	1
Northwestern	1	Wellesley	1
Oberlin	1	Williams	1
Ohio Wesleyan	1	Yale	1

We welcome them into the Alumni Association and look forward to their participation and continued support of the school.

Remember...

We talked today with David Corkran who for 17 years was Assistant Headmaster and history teacher at North Shore. He lives in Winnetka and is immersed in writing about the American Indian in the Southeast. He was at the typewriter when we phoned, doing a new Handbook of the American Indian for the Smithsonian Institute. He writes extensively for various journals, and books he has published include Cherokee Frontier and Creek Frontier, both, incidentally, available at the Winnetka Public Library. This month he celebrates his 50th reunion of the Class of '23 at Wesleyan in Middleton, Conn. For everyone at North Shore from 1926 to 1943 he has a warm hello.
